

Fujitsu StorLead VPL-5650 SAN: 1 Year of Operations and Maintenance Service Free The network storage system that has been trusted for over twenty five years is being retired. The Fujitsu StorLead VPL-5650 high-performance network-attached storage system has proven itself to the highest standard by exceeding the service threshold and remaining fully operational for the past several years. Fujitsu will continue to support the storage system until the end of 2020 to provide you with a maximum of one year of on-site operations and maintenance services. This will allow you to transition to a new storage solution prior to the end of the service period. Please refer to www.fujitsu.com/storlead/servex for more information on Fujitsu products. RISING TEMPERATURES IN THE NORTHEAST PROVIDE THE DRIVER WITH OPTIONS IN DEC We are very excited to announce the launch of the new Fujitsu VLS Medial (FVM) All-Flash array, using Fujitsu VLS technology to deliver the agility and performance needed to meet the growing. Seagate tells us all-flash arrays are still at least a year away. On the network side the serviceability of the VPL-5650 remains. The VPL-5650 generates the same amount of service events as the VPL-4240, so service. TOKYO, March 21, 2017 -Fujitsu Information Systems Corporation today launched the all-flash storage market with the introduction of the first all-flash storage system capable of delivering more than 5.2PB of.
